

PEEL & STICK WALLPAPER INSTALLATION TIPS

Inspect your walls. Begin in the least conspicuous corner. Use a level to make sure the ceiling is level and at a 90° angle to the adjacent wall.

Gently pull the backing down another 2 feet. Press the wall covering down as you move down the wall. Press the backing against the wall using a “concave arch”, moving any bubbles from the center to the edges.

Place the wallpaper roll on the floor against the wall, with design facing away from wall. Peel back the first 6 inches of backing from the wallpaper roll. Using a ladder, and carefully holding edges, carry the wallpaper up toward the ceiling.

Continue this process, working in 2 foot increments until you reach the floor or baseboard. Use a straight edge and a blade to cut off excess.

Let the remaining, still-covered wallpaper unroll from the roll as you go. Do not remove more backing. Place the sticky side gently against the wall, aligning with the ceiling and the adjacent wall.

Repeat these steps with the next piece of wallpaper, starting at the top and moving down the wall in increments. The wallpaper is designed to overlap. Make sure to overlap the pattern by 1/2 inch so the pattern aligns. Continue until you finish your project.

Gently realign the paper if needed. Once the edges are aligned and straight, press the sticky back surface firmly against the wall, working from the center out to press out any bubbles that gather under the surface.

A NOTE ON CEILING INSTALLATIONS: If you plan to install peel and stick wallpaper on a ceiling - which looks pretty awesome, by the way - you will need to add glue to the seams and corners. Otherwise the weight of the paper itself will cause the wall covering to pull away from the ceiling. We suggest drops of Super-Glue®.

FUN DIY TIP: Leftover wallpaper scraps can be used to cover a book or line the back of a bookcase. Use your imagination!
